Animals bring you luck.
Regiments collected them as Mascots But Bella and Bertha were an unusual choice for the Scots Guards. In late 1914, two cows were found near Ypres (pronounced 'ee-pruh') They were the only survivors from a herd that had been hit by shell-fire. The ~~cows~~ soon named Bella and Bertha – became the battalion's mascots, providing fresh milk for the men in the trenches

Young soldiers suffered badly.
Ernest Parker, a soldier in the 10th Battalion of the Durham Light Infantry, said ...

Army food was monotonous and in the trenches bully beef¹ and bread, often without butter or jam, was the usual fare.

Teenagers like myself were always hungry.

Plus, when we needed food most it sometimes did not arrive at all, and it was far from pleasant to spend 24 hours front line with nothing to eat.

an army that had invaded his body .

The Little Soldiers of the Night
*Though some hundreds you may kill, Still you'll find there's hundreds still,
For they hide beneath each other
And are smart at taking cover;
Then you have an awful bite,
They've a shocking appetite.*

Lieutenant A G May, British Army, 1917, saw how shell- shock could affect

The noise was impossible.

Shells were bursting overhead.

*I started to have uncontrollable jerking and shaking of my legs. I was quite upset because I was unable to stop it.
The doctor told me I had shell- shock
I was told to go to a special hospital for shell-shock victims.*

To end the dreary day,
The sun brought fire
And smote the grey

In his desire
That the evening sky might glow as red
As showed the earth with blood and fire.

The charge her heroes left us, we assumed,
What, dying, they reconquered, we preserved,
In the chill trenches, harried, shelled, entombed,
Winter came down on us, but no man swerved.

Winter came down on us. The low clouds, torn
In the stark branches of the riven pines, Blurred the white rockets that from dusk till morn
Traced the wide curve of the close-grappling lines.

In Flanders fields the poppies blow Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Our brains ache, in the merciless iced east winds that knife us...

Wearied we keep awake because the night is silent...

Low drooping flares confuse our memory of the salient...

Worried by silence, sentries whisper,
curious, nervous,
But nothing happens.

Our little hour – how short it is When Love with dew-eyed loveliness Raises her lips for ours to kiss
And dies within our first caress.
Youth flickers out like wind-blown flame,
Sweets of to-day to-morrow sour,
For Time and Death, relentless, claim
Our little hour.

A little cross of weather-silvered wood,
Hung with a garish wreath of tinselled wire,
And on it carved a legend – thus it runs:
'Ici Response – ' Add what name you will
And multiply by thousands: in the fields,
Along the roads, beneath the trees – one here,
A dozen there, to each its simple tale
Of one more jewel threaded star-like on The sacrificial rosary of France.
